

Ian Clubley Coaching

Professional Development. Personal Change.

in Education

Support for education professionals. Those who recognise that improvement means taking the opportunity to think and act differently.

To adapt.

People that want to change their record of achievement; to improve upon what success has meant for them and those connected to them.

Personally. Professionally.

Motivated staff. Resourceful school. Successful pupils.

The development of pupils can only be maximised when staff feel resourceful & confident, able to manage the increasing demands that compete for their time, whether they are a Teacher, Senior Leader, TA, or Support Staff.

Individual & Team coaching has the ability to enhance personal characteristics & support school development initiatives which can make the difference between surviving & thriving in your school.

NLP Practitioner

I support education professionals to improve their productivity.

Coaching can build the resilience required in our schools to create resourceful people, improved outcomes & sustainable change.

DiSC can enable your team to understand & communicate more efficiently & with greater effectiveness.

I use a combination of coaching, DiSC Behaviour Profiling & NLP Practitioner expertise to enhance your people. For themselves. For your school.

Teachers must take ownership of personal & professional development. In a challenging climate, school leaders require themselves & their staff to become more resourceful & adaptable. Coaching, DISC & NLP

Recruiting the 'right' candidate has never been more challenging; retaining staff to enable continuity & growth, never more important. Ensure that the people you employ compliment what is needed in your team; learn in minutes what could take months to find out. DiSC & NLP

Staff require resilience & increasingly productive ways of working to manage their workload & health effectively. Leaders require staff to work with autonomy & demonstrate greater responsibility in meeting the needs of the school. Coaching, DiSC & NLP

Unlock the potential of your people by helping them understand themselves & others better. Build the resilience & motivation required for improved personal performance & school effectiveness.
